Introduction

After a six-year hiatus, MCF is happy to bring back MCF’s Giving in Minnesota report, offering big picture insights on giving in our state.

This refreshed report is possible thanks to a new partnership with Candid, the merged Foundation Center and GuideStar that is committed to bringing the social sector the information we need to make change. Their research tools and staff offer us access to a deeper set of data than ever. This report is a retrospective look at giving, based on 2018 figures.

New this issue is MCF’s 2020 Grantmaking and Practice Survey (pages 16-19), which highlights responses from Minnesota organizations that provided a glimpse into 2021 giving after 2020 events that impacted communities throughout the state.

We also owe thanks to our members, who demonstrated their commitment to data transparency by working with MCF and Candid to submit their grants and giving data for this report, and to be part of Candid’s research tools now and in the future. Many also took the extra step of submitting real time data about their 2020 giving related to the coronavirus pandemic, helping the sector in Minnesota and nationally coordinate efforts and get a fuller sense of the response.

Thank you to them, and to all interested in data-informed giving!

Giving Insights

Out-of-State Giving

We’re tracking much more giving from organizations outside of Minnesota into our state than ever before. The top 25 largest givers from other states gave $132.6 million into Minnesota, a 51% increase from six years ago.

In 2018, the top giving entities were W.K. Kellogg Foundation and Ford Foundation—both of which almost quadrupled their giving into Minnesota compared to 2012.

Individual Giving

Minnesotans’ individual giving increased 20% from the 2014 Giving in Minnesota report, rising to $5.0 billion in 2018.

However, that’s a 2% decrease from 2017 individual giving of $5.1 billion.

We can likely attribute this drop in large part to changes in federal tax law, which increased the standard deduction, thus decreasing the incentive to use the charitable deduction.
$2.2 Billion

Giving Snapshot
In 2018, community/public, private and corporate foundations and giving programs in Minnesota gave a total of $2.2 billion in charitable contributions, a 23% rise from 2012.

The giving reported here represents the location of the organization. In 2018, congressional district 5 had the largest number of organizations and grants given state-wide.
Out-of-State Giving Into Minnesota

Giving in Minnesota primarily analyzes charitable giving from Minnesota-based organizations. But some organizations outside of the state also give generously to Minnesota-based recipients. The following 25 non-Minnesota-based givers awarded the most grant dollars to Minnesota-based recipients in 2018. According to Candid, out-of-state giving to Minnesota-based recipients totaled $336 million.

Giving Insights

Corporate Giving*

The corporate giving picture changed significantly in Minnesota compared to our last report.

Candid classifies Wells Fargo Foundation as based in Minneapolis, bringing their $322 million of giving into our report. Additionally, giving at corporations like Target has changed significantly in that time, in both scope and funding priorities.

*Following national best practices, donations such as gift cards are no longer counted as cash contributions and are not reflected within these figures.

Giving Insights

Giving Toward Religious Causes

Giving in the Religion category increased significantly, more than doubling the $31 million given in 2012.

This was led by InFaith Community Foundation, which increased giving in this category by $10 million since the previous report.
The year 2020 has been a time of unexpected events that have dramatically impacted many across the state of Minnesota.

The coronavirus pandemic and killing of George Floyd amplified racial injustices, displaced families and small businesses—triggering a shift within the philanthropic sector to do more.

As nonprofit organizations seek short-term crisis relief and recovery to support the communities they serve, philanthropy has proactively responded by taking action here and now.

MCF conducted a qualitative survey of foundation CEOs to understand how philanthropic entities have shifted grantmaking practices in the year 2020—in addition to providing insight on how foundations anticipate shifts in grantmaking practice in 2021 and beyond.

Of MCF’s nearly 150 members, 84 foundation CEOs participated in the Grantmaking and Practices Survey. Foundation types included community foundations, private independent foundations, private family foundations and corporate foundations and giving programs.

Minnesota Disaster Recovery Fund (MDRF) for coronavirus
MCF and the Saint Paul & Minnesota Foundation partnered to raise over $11.4 million from grantmakers and individual donors for the Minnesota Disaster Recovery Fund for coronavirus (MDRF).

In 2020, the fund awarded grants to 93 community intermediaries throughout the state.

These organizations were dedicated throughout the dual pandemics of the coronavirus and racism to bring sustainability to residents, businesses and nonprofits in Minnesota.

Learn more about the fund at mcf.org/MDRF.

Methodology

The Minnesota Council on Foundations (MCF) collects Giving in Minnesota data from public sources and from data members submit to Candid and directly to MCF.

Sources include:
- Self-reporting by grantmakers on grants paid and other giving, including financial data provided to Candid and directly to MCF.
- Annual IRS 990 tax returns filed by community/public foundations and IRS 990-PF returns filed by private foundations and company-sponsored foundations, which report total grants, total assets, and grant lists.
- The IRS Statistics of Income, Individual Income and Tax Data, by State And Size of Adjusted Gross Income, for Tax Year 2018, which reports aggregate individual giving data based on tax returns with charitable deductions.
- Giving USA, a publication of Giving USA Foundation, researched and written by the Center on Philanthropy at Indiana University (2019 edition), which provides information on the percentage of U.S. charitable givers who itemize their tax returns.
- Candid data about grant dollars given to Minnesota recipients from non-Minnesota-based foundations.
#WeAreMCF

The Minnesota Council on Foundations (MCF) is an association of grant makers working to advance prosperity and equity through connecting, strengthening and mobilizing the field of philanthropy in Minnesota.

The organization’s 150 members represent grantmaking throughout the state, providing millions of dollars and non-financial resources to nonprofits annually. Members include family and independent private foundations, community and other public foundations, and corporate foundations and giving programs.
